L. A. GAS TAX DEMAND OPPOSED

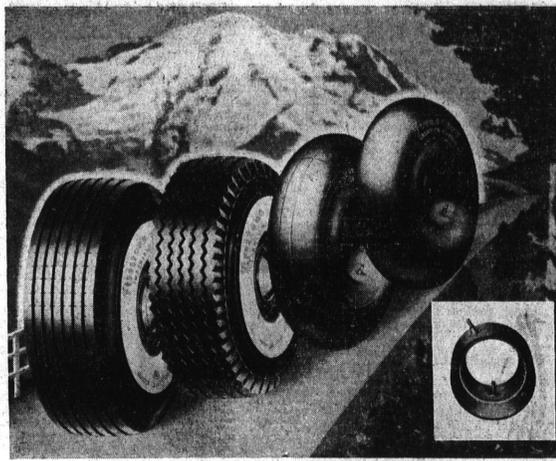

The special assessment district relief activities which have been undertaken by the board of supervisors would be seriously jeopardized should the county decide to the request of Mayor Fletcher Bowron that approximately 60 percent of the gasoline tax money returned to Los Angeles county by the state be spent on streets within the city limits.

This was the declaration of Chairman Roger W. Jessup, of the board, in a strongly-worded reply to the city executive's published letter.

"Thousands of home-owners who are looking forward to this relief by the county would be faced with a prospect of losing their property through excessive and exorbitant special assessments," Jessup wrote.

"As chairman of the board of supervisors, I have always taken the position that the board represents the entire county—the people in cities as well as those in the unincorporated areas. I believe that it is to the best interests of the city of Los Angeles that a reasonable expenditure of funds upon rural highways be continued, in order that a network of roads be maintained leading into the metropolitan area.

"It is imperative, from the standpoint of agriculture, business and industry, that adequate county highway facilities be con-
